

EMPOWERING OUR PEOPLE: CENTER OF EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE IN AVIATION

Denver International Airport's (DEN) Vision 100 has set a clear path to successfully reaching 100 million annual passengers. The first pillar, Powering our People, represents the need to build our current and future workforce to become the most equipped airport now and in the future. To achieve this, DEN is building the Center of Equity and Excellence in Aviation (CEEA), a first of its kind in the aviation industry.

CEEA PROGRAM GOALS:

- Serve as an accelerator for economic and workforce development
- Grow access for underserved communities to build equity into success
- Support small minority- and women-owned businesses to increase generational wealth
- Prepare current and future employees for a career pathway in the aviation industry and create more opportunities for minority-, women- and veteran-owned businesses to do partner with DEN
- Advance aviation research and innovation that drives best practices with a global impact

The Center of Equity and Excellence in Aviation will house the following three functions:

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Support small businesses by providing trainings that help companies navigate doing business at DEN.

CAREER PATHWAYS

Create an aviation talent pipeline through a progressive training model that will attract and retain a qualified, world-class workforce.

RESEARCH & INNOVATION

Identify best practices in the aviation industry, partner with local universities to conduct research, and adapt new/existing technology systems to innovate processes.
