

POWERING OUR PEOPLE: CENTER OF EQUITY AND EXCELLENCE IN AVIATION

Denver International Airport's (DEN) Vision 100 has set a clear path to successfully reaching 100 million annual passengers. The first pillar, Powering our People, represents the need to build our current and future workforce to become the most equipped airport now and in the future. To achieve this, DEN is building the Center of Equity and Excellence in Aviation (CEEA), a first of its kind in the aviation industry.

CEEA PROGRAM GOALS:

- Promote an environment of innovation and improvement
- Create an organizational structure that encourages employees and businesses to experiment and think creatively
- Bolster recruitment initiatives
- Foster professional growth amongst employees and business owners
- Provide access to the aviation industry through careers and business opportunities, specifically targeting underserved populations and small businesses

The Center of Equity and Excellence in Aviation will house the following three functions:

BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT

Support small businesses by providing trainings that help companies navigate doing business at DEN.

CAREER PATHWAYS

Create an aviation talent pipeline through a progressive training model that will attract and retain a qualified, world-class workforce.

RESEARCH & INNOVATION

Identify best practices in the aviation industry, partner with local universities to conduct research, and adapt new/existing technology systems to innovate processes.
